

International Polyamines Foundation ONLUS (IPFO)

Membership Dues

On 27 April 2023, the Board of Directors of the International Polyamines Foundation ONLUS (IPFO) met and resolved that the payment of the "annual membership fee" to IPFO, for the year 2023, by the members of the polyamine group must be done no later than August 1st, 2023. Membership fees will be used to support future Foundation activities including international conferences in the field of polyamines and their role in diseases, normal physiology, plants, and microorganisms and to support a new generation of scientists in the field of polyamines. It was unanimously decided to request an annual membership fee, as described in the table below, for supporting members who share the institutional aims outlined in the Statutes of the newly organized IPFO. Membership fees will only be used to support future polyamine scientific conferences and young investigators in the field of polyamines. Additional donations intended for the same uses from those interested in supporting the Foundation will be welcome. Future members of the Board of Directors and the Scientific Committee of the IPFO will be elected from the Foundation's supporting members who have paid their annual membership fee. Payment of membership fees and additional donations can be made by credit card or wire transfer on the International Polyamines Foundation ONLUS website.

The International Polyamines Foundation ONLUS (IPFO) *is a non-profit research-educational institution. To make a tax-deductible contribution to the Foundation, please donate:
