

MEMBERSHIP

Registration for the International Polyamines Foundation Onlus (IPFO) must be pursued individually. The annual membership is valid until December 31st, following the date of the registration payment.

By requesting membership, the members implicitly share the Foundation's aims, and commit themselves to contribute to their achievement, in compliance with the provisions of the Statute. The membership entitles to updates about the foundation activities and is mandatory for the application to conferences organized by the foundation.

Below you can select how to register and complete the payment of the corresponding fees.

During the registration procedure it is mandatory to upload the following documents to certify the employment status:

- Students and PhD Students must upload a document certifying the enrollment in the current academic year to a Bachelor's Degree, Master's Degree, PhD or any other course of the same level.
- Professors and retired professors must upload either a certificate or a self-declaration that states the current status. In the latter case it is recommended to include a link to an institutional web page of the belonging institution.
- Industry employees must upload a self-declaration that states the current status and indicates the information about the company.

The membership can be paid with several methods including credit cards and wire transfers. Any additional transaction fee must be charged to the buyer.

After the payment procedure, the enrolling member will be notified by email about the status of the registration status. Within 15 days, after the uploaded documents have been verified and the payment procedure is completed, a certification and a receipt will be sent to the new member via email. To this end, the buyer is required to add personal details such as name, surname, billing address, email and company during the registration procedure.